

A Conversation with Tochi: Treasurer, CSPA Board of Directors

Tochi Omoloye
CPA Candidate

Why did you get involved with CSPA?

Volunteering has always been a huge part of my life, whether in church, school, or at work. I find it rewarding when I can use my skills to help where I can. When I came across this role [Treasurer, CSPA Board of Directors], I felt this was a perfect opportunity to put my professional skills and my personal experience with a skin disorder to use. Growing up, I battled with severe acne and I have lived with facial scars and flare-ups all my life. This always negatively affected my self-confidence; volunteering with an organization like CSPA that specializes in this, I felt would be a good fit. I do understand the need to educate, raise awareness and support the people affected with skin disorders.

What do you perceive as outcomes of your involvement?

I believe my involvement with CSPA has helped improve our financial reporting to the Board. I have been able to oversee and monitor the financial performance of CSPA, providing professional advice and consultation as or when required.

Why do you like volunteering with CSPA?

Volunteering is a great opportunity to expand my professional experience, meet new people while exchanging ideas and knowledge. I have learned and I am still learning new things. Also seeing how the [CSPA] team supports skin patients is really heartwarming.

Why would you tell others that they should get involved with CSPA?

Volunteering with CSPA gives you the chance to try something new and make a difference.
